

Give Them Heroes

Who do your children admire? Are their aspirations aimed toward a sports hero, a rock star, or a celebrity? Our children need better heroes than these, and you can raise their sights by reading biographies to them (once they get hooked they can go on their own). Introduce them to people who exhibit character, integrity, persistence and virtue. These titles are listed in the approximate order of difficulty.

PICTURE BOOKS

Squanto and the Miracle of Thanksgiving, by Eric Metaxas (METAXAS) Squanto was captured and sold into slavery in Spain. But God brought him to faith and ultimately returned him to the New World to become a guide and friend for the Pilgrims. Yes, this is the true story.

The Boy Who Changed the World (E ANDREWS) This picture books tells the true story of how one ordinary boy came to develop 'super plants' that helped save billions of people from starvation.

ELEMENTARY AGES

Martin Luther: What Should I Do? (J 921 LUTHER) Young Martin thought that he had to pray for hours on end, eat very little, and study a great many books in order to have his sins forgiven. However, it was God's Word that showed him that the Lord Jesus had already done everything he needed.

Jim Elliot: A Light for God (J 921 ELLIOT) Jim loved God and the outdoors, so he was excited to share God's love in the jungles of South America.

Lady Jane Grey (9212 GREY)

The Reformation wasn't just about men. Here's a courageous young lady who stood up for her faith. This is part of a series that's great for whole families to read together.
